RICHARDS' GARDENS

MRS. R. E. RICHARDS

423 East Franklin Street, Greencastle, Indiana

GREETINGS, old friends and new. We are grateful for the many fine orders sent us in the past and we hope to serve you again this year. Our listing is limited to those we have found to be dependable after thorough trial. We have many others in too limited supply for listing this year but send us your "want list" and we may be able to help you. Of our own introductions we are happy to have built up sufficient stock to enable us to make some price reductions. Others are priced as low as possible.

Let daylilies be the backbone of your summer garden. They will endure more hardship than any other perennial yet give you rich reward for added attention, especially plenty of moisture during the blooming season. While they will grow in shade they need sun part of the day and do even better in full sun. They do not require frequent division so space them from 2-3 feet apart to permit formation of good sized clumps. In northern sections it is best to plant evergreen varieties in spring while the dormant type may be planted either spring or fall. Some protection the first winter is advisable though they are hardy when established. Mix well rotted manure or a balanced fertilizer with soil when planting, spread the roots and cover with an inch of soil.

Join the American Hemerocallis Society dues $3.50 annually. Mrs. Daisy L. Ferrick, Secretary, 416 Arter Ave., Topeka, Kansas.
